

Disclaimer

The information contained in this and related websites and the possible e-mail exchange resulting from it, may contain unintended technical and/or other inaccuracies and/or (typing) errors. We do not accept any responsibility or liability for these inaccuracies and/or (typing) errors or their possible consequences. Before purchasing a product or service, or using the technical or other information provided on or through this internet site for design and or calculation purposes, the (future) purchaser/user should verify the correctness and validity of the information provided. The information on this site can, without prior notice to visitors/users, be changed to reflect progressing knowledge or technical and/or commercial developments. We take utmost care to protect and safeguard our website(s), mail applications and data exchange as well as possible against harmful software and its spreading, but do not accept any responsibility or liability.

Privacy

Personal or business data that are collected by means of this site will not be made available to third parties or made public by us, unless required by legal obligations. The said data will only be used to evaluate the usage of our site and to improve its quality, or to enable us to inform you about products and services that may be of interest to you. In case the receipt of newsletters and other digital marketing information from our company is not or no longer desired this can be made know by clicking the “unsubscribe” link that is situated below the digitally provided information. For further questions or information an e-mail can be sent to webmaster@aquablu.org.

Copyright

The information in this internet site may unintentionally infringe on (trademark) rights of third parties. If such an infringement is observed, we request the reader to inform us about the possible infringement via: webmaster@aquablu.org. The information and/or pictorial material on this and/or related internet sites cannot without our prior written consent be it in whole or in part in any way or manner be copied, multiplied, published or reused.